

COLONEL PLANS TO BE DICTATOR, DECLARES TAFT

Says Roosevelt Wants Presidency for Life.

DON'T KNOW MEANING OF SQUARE DEAL

Proves by Letters That When Teddy Made Charges He Knew They Were False—Asserts That Former Friend Has Twisted Statements to Fit His Ambitious Contentions—Practically Places Mighty Hunter in Ananias Club, and Brands Him as a Tin Horn Sportsman.

Boston, April 25.—President Taft denied his fighting clothes today, abandoning his policy of silence under the attacks that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt had made upon him and upon his administration, and for the first time since Mr. Roosevelt announced his candidacy, launched into a bitter denunciation of the former President.

From the time Mr. Taft entered Massachusetts and made his first speech at Springfield, shortly after noon, until late tonight, he hammered away at Colonel Roosevelt. The President made close to a dozen speeches. In all he made it clear that he is unalterably opposed to Mr. Roosevelt; that he saw disaster in a third term in the White House for any man, and that he did not believe, Colonel Roosevelt had given him a "square deal."

His spoke to good sized crowds in all the cities where he made set speeches, and at the towns and villages where his train stopped briefly, the people packed around his car and listened with close attention.

The President spoke at Springfield and Palmer, twice in Worcester and at Natick, South Framingham and several smaller towns. In the beginning he seemed to use his attacks on Colonel Roosevelt with reluctance, but he said:

"This wrenches my soul," he said.

As the day wore on, however, and he made speech after speech in which he denounced Mr. Roosevelt again and again, Mr. Taft grew more aggressive in manner, emphasized his words with gestures and apparently laid aside any feeling of regret he may have felt at this evidence that the long friendship with his former chief was broken.

At Springfield, Boston and Worcester, delivered in the arena to a large crowd, but before retiring to his private car, he spoke briefly to an overflow meeting in Symphony Hall. His speech in the arena was delivered from a manuscript, prepared during the last few days in Washington, carefully gone over by members of his cabinet and containing a detailed answer to many of Mr. Roosevelt's charges.

The more salient points made by the President are printed below:

My Fellow Citizens:

In September, 1911, Theodore Roosevelt, then Vice-President, succeeded to the presidency on the death of William McKinley and served three years and nearly six months as President in his first term. He was elected to a second term in November of 1912, and when he was returned by an overwhelming vote in November of that year, he announced that under no circumstances would he be a candidate for, or accept, another term.

When the campaign of 1908 approached, he recommended to the American people that I, then his Secretary of War, be made the Republican candidate for President in the approaching contest. He did everything in his power to secure my nomination and election, and I have had the deepest feeling of gratitude to him on this account ever since. Nevertheless, in thought, word, or deed have I been disloyal to my friendship for him.

More than three years have elapsed since I was inaugurated President, and a presidential campaign is now at hand. A number of months ago I said to the public, like most of my predecessors, I would welcome an approval of my present administration by a re-election. After this time Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that he did not intend to be a candidate for the presidency, and that he would regard his nomination as a calamity personally and undesirable from every standpoint. Thereafter the statements that came from him from time to time became less and less firm in the resolution not to become a candidate. When certain State Governors had asked him to do so, in February last, he issued a declaration in which he said that he would accept the nomination if tendered, and would allow his name to be put in nomination until the question was settled. Between the time that the Governors had asked for his candidacy and his formal declaration of acceptance he delivered an address before the constitutional convention of Ohio, in session at Columbus, which he put forth as his charter of democracy under which he hoped needed reforms might be brought about. The charter of democracy advocated a change in our judicial system known as the recall of decisions, with recall of judges under circumstances not clearly defined, and with other innovations, none of which were in accord with the platform of the Republican party, and to some of which he seems to have become a very recent convert.

Mr. Roosevelt's Charges.

By excerpts from my speeches he has sought to show and has charged that I am one who has publicly announced that I am in favor of an aristocracy of political bosses, and

(Continued on Second Page.)

38 DAYS IN MEXICAN PRISON

Harrowing Experience of Two Young American Citizens.

El Paso, Tex., April 25.—After thirty-eight days in the unspeakable fifth of the penitentiary at Chihuahua, abused, insulted and starved, although there was no charge against them, L. J. Barton, aged thirty-five, of Marion, Texas, and John Anderson, aged thirty-five, of Houston, Texas, arrived here to-night, having been liberated at Chihuahua last night through the efforts of United States Consul Marion Letcher. They bore evidence of the ordeal through which they had passed.

Barton lost twenty-five pounds and Anderson about twenty in confinement. They had sold their clothing to get a little food, and arrived here in indescribable fatigue. Both spent five days in solitary confinement. Barton was the first when whom sent to prison, and Anderson followed him. He was given neither food nor water. Anderson soon afterwards suffered the same fate.

In their cells there was a little window, but sharpened spikes projected inward to keep them from approaching close enough to the bars to look out.

Phases of the torture they suffered while isolated cannot be related in print. They were employed on the Matheson Ranch, near Phoenix, when they heard that better pay was to be had in the lumber camp at San Pedro, Madera. Both were well clothed and had money. They had reached Chihuahua en route when they were arrested.

No charge ever was placed against them, but they were informed that they had to stay in the camp at San Pedro. "Just for being Americans," I suppose," remarked Barton, who was always the spokesman. He was silent, left to infer that was the case. Time after time he demanded a trial, but was given no hearing.

APPEAL TO CUSTOMS COURT

Question of Free Entry of Wood Pulp and Paper to Be Decided.

Washington, April 25.—The question of free entry of wood pulp and paper to the United States from all foreign nations, which has been the subject of a long and bitter controversy, will be appealed to the Customs Court.

New York has submitted the government's contention that the favored nations clause of treaties cannot be applied to the pulp and paper industry on the ground that the free entry privilege is being enjoyed by Canada under the only operating treaty of the Canadian reciprocity agreement.

The American Express Company and other shippers of European wood pulp will appear in support of the government's position.

It is known that President Taft wishes to have the Customs Court pass upon the matter.

"DARE DEVIL" RUSH IS DEAD

New York Fire Battalion Chief Victim of Fatal Accident.

New York, April 25.—While trying to avoid striking a gasometer, a fire engine driven by a fireman named John Rush, of the Fire Department, was wrecked yesterday afternoon in a street in which he was riding sharply to one side, the wheels tipping over and the engine throwing violently to the pavement, resulting in the death of the fireman.

Rush was a well-known fireman, and was one of the best drivers in the city. He was driving the big and speedy automobile in which Fire Chief Croker used to ride. The accident occurred when he became driver of Chief Kenyon. His driving feats had gained for him the nickname of "Dare Devil" Rush.

OLYMPIC STILL OFF RYDE

White Star Liner, Probably Will Sail

Southampton, April 25.—The White Star steamship Olympic, whose Bremen went on strike yesterday, has been run back to England, and will sail to-night for Ryde. The passengers are being taken care of by the ship's company, and the ship is being towed to the wharf.

CARS BLOWN FROM TRACK

Wind Storm Strikes Union Pacific Passenger Train, Resulting in Injury.

Omaha, Neb., April 25.—Twenty-nine persons were injured, one of them fatally, when a passenger train of the Union Pacific was blown off the tracks by a high wind storm yesterday afternoon. The train, composed of a combination mail, baggage and express car, and two coaches, was running at a moderate rate when the gale struck it. As soon as Engineer O'Brien realized what had happened he ran back to the engine, and turned to-day killed the measure by a vote of 13 to 17. There were four pairs.

TOWN STRUCK BY TORNADO

One Woman Killed, Several Persons Injured and Many Buildings Wrecked.

Ponca City, Okla., April 25.—Mrs. Mary Crook, who killed several persons were injured, none fatally, when a severe or more buildings were demolished by a tornado which struck Ponca City yesterday afternoon. Fourteen deaths in the city to-day. The wind moved a path about 200 yards wide through the center of the residence section of Ponca City.

Against Income Tax Amendment.

Boston, April 25.—For the third successive year Massachusetts has declared against the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution by the action of the State Senate, which voted 13 to 17. There were four pairs.

DEFENDS ACTION IN TRUST CASE

Talk About Suppression of Is Nonsense, Says Roosevelt.

COURSE BACKED BY HIS CABINET

If Good Will of Morgan Interests Resulted, Colonel Declares, Taft Was Beneficiary—Raps President for Not Taking Up Matter Before This Time.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 25.—"The talk about the suppression of the report is nonsense," said Colonel Roosevelt, in a statement setting forth his connection with the International Harvester Company case. Colonel Roosevelt asserted that at a meeting with his cabinet, at which Mr. Taft was present, it was decided that the Bureau of Corporations be instructed to complete its investigation of the Harvester Company before any suit was instituted, following the usual course of procedure in such cases. Mr. Taft, he added, concurred in this decision.

During the remainder of his administration, a period of a year and a half, Colonel Roosevelt said, the Commissioner of Corporations was unable to complete his investigation. He said that in the latter years of the present administration Mr. Taft at any time could have ordered the Attorney General to bring suit against the Harvester Company, or could have requested the Commissioner of Corporations to hasten his investigation, but that Mr. Taft had taken no action, except that now taken five days before the Massachusetts primary.

Colonel Roosevelt also said that when the Northern Securities suit was brought against the Morgan interests in 1904, he was expecting to run for President, but that when the Harvester Company matter came up in 1904, he knew he would not be a candidate the following year, so that if the action taken in this case had secured the good will of any of the Morgan interests for anybody, it secured their good will for Taft.

Colonel Roosevelt then refers in detail to correspondence regarding the Harvester trust matter between himself, Charles J. Bonaparte, Attorney General under President Roosevelt, and Herbert Knox Smith, then and now Commissioner of Corporations.

Roosevelt's Position.

The Colonel then sums up as follows:

"I took precisely the action in the Harvester trust case that I took in all similar cases.

"I am entirely responsible for the action taken, but it was taken with the full approval of the entire cabinet, including Mr. Taft, who was then a member of the cabinet.

"The matter remained at the time less than a year and a half of my administration. During this time, for the reasons given by Mr. Smith, he was not able to finish the report ordered by the cabinet. During this period, as Mr. Smith writes, he only instructions I gave him in regard to the report were orders intended to facilitate its preparation and publication.

"Over three years have elapsed since Mr. Taft became President. During this entire time the letter of Mr. Taft has been in the office of the Attorney General, and he cannot have forgotten the debate about it in the cabinet meeting when he was a member of the cabinet, and in which I took part. During these three years Mr. Taft could at any time have ordered the Attorney General to proceed with the report, or to have requested the Commissioner of Corporations to hurry up the report or to give him the reasons why it was impossible to hurry it up.

"Not only did I not suppress any papers connected with the case, but I left every paper on file either in the Department of Justice or in the Bureau of Corporations, and if anything wrong has been done, either in the way of omission or commission, the administration had three years and two months in which to correct the wrong.

"Mr. Taft has been over three years in the White House. During that time he had ample time either to publish the facts of the case, or to take action against the Harvester trust. He has taken no action except that now taken five days before the Massachusetts primary.

"This matter was brought up in the Senate on the motion of Senator Johnston, who, as a member of both committees to investigate Mr. Lorimer, has been his earnest supporter and advocate. The circumstances under which it was passed and responded to give ground for the belief that the prearranged purpose was to show that the improper reason I had favored the Harvester trust, and the Morgan interests. When under my administration the Northern Securities suit was brought against Mr. Morgan, I was expecting to run as a candidate for President in 1904, and I was certain that I was not going to run, and Mr. Taft expected to run, and I expected that he would run in 1908.

"The action taken in the Harvester trust case was taken when I personally was to pay for any consequences resulting from Mr. Morgan's ill will. If the action taken in the Harvester trust did secure the good will of that trust, or any of the Morgan interests for anybody, it secured their good will for Mr. Taft.

Did Not Consider Support.

"But as a matter of fact, in neither case did I consider in any way whether any support would be gained for or alienated from either me or Mr. Taft. In both cases, and in all other cases of the kind, I considered nothing but what was demanded by right and justice."

Colonel Roosevelt spent most of the afternoon in preparing his statement, or have just begun to night," he said earlier in the day. He received reports (Continued on Ninth Page.)

SPEAKERS HEARD OVER TELEPHONE

Novel Features of Entertainment for Newspaper Men.

TAFT AND BORDEN MAKE ADDRESSES

President in Boston and Premier of Canada at Hot Springs, Va., While Responding to Toasts. Thomas A. Edison and Dr. Alexander Graham Bell Presented.

New York, April 25.—Representative journalists from all over the country were brought together to-night at the annual banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, held in the ball room of the Waldorf Astoria hotel, and the entertainment provided for them, which was interesting throughout, was novel in the character of some of its features. The telephone played a prominent part in lending both variety and novelty to the program.

President Taft, although actually in Boston, addressed the assembled gathering over the long distance wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, his voice being distinctly conveyed to each guest by means of a speaking instrument. In like manner, Premier Borden, of Canada, addressed the guests by long distance telephone from Hot Springs, Va. Intermingled with these addresses were songs over the telephone wires by Miss Jessie Collins and Miss Johnnie Collins, who sang a duet, and Collins sang a plaintive Southern melody.

The banquet hall was handsomely decorated with draped flags and great masses of flowers and foliage. At the tables were seated more than 700 guests. Those at the table of honor included President Frank B. Noyes and other directors and officers of the Associated Press, President Bruce Hallman, of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, and President Finley, of the College of the City of New York; Augustus Thomas, the playwright; Talcott Williams, head of the Pulitzer School of Journalism of Columbia University, and Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, and other guests of note.

The surrounding galleries and boxes were filled with many women in handsome evening costumes.

Novel Features Interspersed.

It was between the courses of the banquet that the novel features were interspersed. Lays and from the orchestra started the banquetting. The announcement shortly afterward from Congressman Victor Murdock, editor of the Wichita Eagle, who acted as toastmaster, that the voices of President Taft and Premier Borden would be heard at such great distances as separated the speakers from the diners was greeted with enthusiastic applause and set the guests to examining the apparatus supplied for accomplishing this feat. Under the table was a watchcase receiver, supplied by the Western Electric Company, with connections with the long distance wires and also with the local wires of the New York Telephone Company. First came the voice of President Taft, and then that of Premier Borden, singing a rousing melody, "Fiddle Upon Your Violin."

The diners were next connected with Premier Borden. He dwelt upon the responsibility and opportunities of the newspaper press, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas run them to cover. He has his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency of Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the